A

MITTIGIAT

TO THE READER.

TO commend this Catalogue would be to reflect on the knowledge of the unprejudiced peruser, and to account for this way of sale, and the advantages that have ensued to learning in General, after so many experiments made by the Approbation of the learned and bookish Gentlemen of this City, is to lessen the veneration I have for their Judgments. I am sufficiently sensible that the truest representations of the books, both as to their goodness and scarcity, hath been censured by some, and interpreted by others, as formal commendations ; I therefore leave the respective Buyers to judge as they please, and to determine as they think fit, inviting them to a view and examination of the books, the Fourteenth and Fifteenth days of this instant, from the hours of Nine to Twelve in the morning, and from Two to Six in the Evening.

The
